DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

1. The drawings are objected to under 37 CFR 1.83(a). The drawings must show every feature of the invention specified in the claims. Therefore, the holes in the upper, the hole having a filter, a second filter, and the hole in the upper being in communication the plurality of notches and channels must be shown or the feature(s) canceled from the claim(s). No new matter should be entered.

Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as "amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

Art Unit: 3728

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

3. Claims 11 and 17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention.

The hole in the upper is not shown. It is not clear how the channels and notches of the footbed can be in communication with a hole in the side of the upper.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

5. Claims 1,2,6-8,13-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by US 1852883 (Gustaveson).

Gustaveson teaches a shoe comprising a sole, an upper integrally formed with the sole, a removable footbed (4), a plurality of channels (5-9) and a plurality of notches (10) in communication with the channels to provide ventilation for the shoe.

It has been held that the term "integral" is sufficiently broad to embrace constructions united by such means as fastening and welding. In re Hotte, 177 USPQ 326, 328 (CCPA 1973). Moreover, if applicant were to further limit the claim to include the upper and the sole to be a one-piece unit this change would not appear to make the claim allowable inasmuch as it is old and conventional in the art to construct the upper and the sole in a one-piece unit.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claims 3-5, 16 and 18-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Gustaveson '883 in view of US 4888887 (Solow).

Gustaveson teaches a shoe as claimed (see the rejection above) except for a through hole and filter on the side of the sole. Solow teaches a shoe having a ventilating system including a plurality of channels in the sole wherein the channels are in communication with a through hole on the side of the sole, the hole can include a flap (27) which functions as a filter inasmuch as it blocks the dirt, mud and water from entering the shoe; see col. 5, lines 35-37. It would have been to provide the sole of Gustaveson with a through hole and filter on the side of the sole in communication with the channels, as taught by Solow, to facilitate ventilating the shoe.

8. Claims 9-12, 17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Gustaveson '883 in view of US 6553690 (Di Girolamo).

Gustaveson teaches a shoe as claimed (see the rejection above) except for a through hole and filter on the side of the upper. Di Girolamo teaches a shoe having a ventilating system including a plurality of channels in the insole (i.e. footbed) wherein the channels are in communication with a through hole (24) and filter (membrane 26) on the side of the upper. The channels extend through a side surface of the insole. It would have been to provide the sole of Gustaveson with a through hole and filter on the side of the upper in communication with the channels, as taught by DiGirolamo, to facilitate ventilating the shoe.

Conclusion

9. Applicant is duly reminded that a complete response must satisfy the requirements of 37 C.F. R. 1.111, including:

--“The reply must present arguments pointing out the specific distinctions believed to render the claims, including any newly presented claims, patentable over any applied references.”

--“A general allegation that the claims define a patentable invention without specifically pointing out how the language of the claims patentably distinguishes them from the references does not comply with the requirements of this section.”

--Moreover, “The prompt development of a clear issue requires that the replies of the applicant meet the objections to and rejections of the claims. Applicant should also specifically point out the support for any amendments made to the disclosure. See MPEP 2163.06” MPEP 714.02. The “disclosure” includes the claims, the specification and the drawings.
